Innovation – Service – Value

Having begun in window cleaning and then contract cleaning, we understand the manual cleaning industry from the inside and use this knowledge to inform our decision-making to this day. We have never forgotten our roots, so we strive to improve the future of the industry, creating a safer and simplified world of cleaning for all.

2002
Queens
Award
for innovation

Innovation has always remained at the heart of our business, with our many patents on our high quality products testament to this. A UK-based company, SYR invests heavily in research and development, driving constant progress and setting the standard for all our competitors. Recognised globally for our work, we were even proud recipients of the Queen’s Award for Enterprise: Innovation in 2002.

The product of endless research and collaboration, our unique cleaning systems are all carefully designed to not only offer an exceptional cleaning performance, but to also offer lifetime savings, demonstrating top quality at the right price.

Outstanding levels of service and support are valued by our blue-chip customers, many of whom have been with us for many years. Dedicated customer service representatives provide a friendly and professional service, while our unique SYR TechTeam provides on-site advice, training and support, free of charge.

From an initial enquiry to on-going support whenever and wherever you need it, SYR is here to help.
